Important to Taxpayers.

The following points from Session Laws, 1903. Arizona Legislature, will be of interest to the taxpayers of Apache County at this time:

Taxes on real estate become delinquent on Second Monday of December.

Such real estate is listed in "back tax book."

Delinquent taxes bear ten per cent per annum interest from time of making "back tax book" until paid.

The tax collector enforces payment of all taxes on real estate which remains unpaid on January first by bringing suit in district court.

The owner of, or any one interested in real estate listed in "back tax book" may redeem said land on or before Dec. 31, 1903, by paying the taxes, ten per cent interest per annum and fees of Clerk of Board of Supervisors and four per cent to the tax collector.

At any time before suit is begun and before judgement the party interested may redeem the property by paying the original taxes, Clerk of Board of Supervisors fees, interest, four per cent to tax collector, attorney's fees, printer's fees, sheriff's fees and fees accruing in district court.

The former law on enforcing the collection of delinquent taxes is repealed.

The Arizona Cattlemen's Association will hold a convention in Phoenix with the opening of the new year, the first meeting to be held on January 4. All the cattlemen of the Territory are expected at this gathering and the Secretary of the Association has already sent out letters urging their attendance.
